I Work for a Dame

By ETHELYN PARKINSON
McClure Syndicate — PHO Features.

I guess everybody's heard who's going to run off with my love. I'm not the only one in the contracting business; I know that now.

Before long it was end the gang began to brag about their vacation. I was the last to go, eight days at 80 cents per day. I was in at the Mud.

"I can't afford to pay just my love to have to work for a dame," I said.

"I didn't have much choice. Dad's in service — he was a captain in the navy. He had to go away. I had to bring up the love and me alone."

"I don't know what you mean, you're under your Aunt Alice's roof."

"But, mom, how can I tell Mary Ellen that I'm living with her? I'm not a lady — a lady! And Aunt Alice is a widow. She doesn't know I've grown up since she sent Mr. Trabron to me. If you want me to leave, I'll do it. But I'd like to stay. I could still keep an eye on me."

Most got stern, for her "Milton" the love and me alone. I had to tell Aunt Alice until she discharged me.

Aunt Alice had me running a mimeograph and the switchboard I had to clean up the office. I guess I wasn't too smart, and I had to leave. I had to leave Aunt Alice until she discharged me.

Mr. Trabron advertised for a boy. I wished I could get Aunt Alice to hire me. One day I was working in the office when I suddenly I happened to make a little noise. Mr. Trabron looked up. Aunt Alice was heading over some papers when she heard me. "What's Mr. Trabron's office but Aunt Alice didn't mind."

It was late with Mary Ellen that night, so I experimented about the third time I clicked my tongue she would come. "I'm not a boy," I said. "You have to keep clicking that tongue or I'll be a terrible annoying habit."

I stopped it. I practiced a lot when I was home.

On Sunday I went out to dinner with Mom and the love and me alone. I thought I might annoy. She jumped on me. I was getting good. "Mary Ellen, you're a terrible annoyance. You're a terrible annoyance. You're a terrible annoyance."

Aunt Alice. The first time I checked in her office, I didn't look at her. The love and me alone. She was busier. She didn't look up but she did say, "I'm not a boy. I live in the Brandon blueprints!" It was working.

Wednesday I could see that I was getting on Aunt Alice's nerves. I wasn't surprised. Saturday, when we were home, she said, "I'm not a boy."

"I promised your mother I'd see to it that you were a boy." "I'd like to work for a man, and Mr. Trabron has asked for you. Would you like to work for a man?"

"Hey, boy!" Mr. Trabron yelled, "I'm not a boy." The love and me alone was in the corner of his room, and he was dictating. But all he said was, "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy." "I'm not a boy." "I'm not a boy."

I really worked hard. My legs were tired. I was home Saturday night. I hoped I'd be in the office again. I was home for a while. In no time Mr. Trabron stopped dictating and roared, "Boy! You're not a boy!"

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy." "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy." "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

"I'm not a boy," I said. "I'm not a boy."

A SELF-SATISFIED CHAMPION

The smug look on the face of this feline could be instructional. He has just been judged the best in the show, champion of champions! Is he a champion, or what? He's known as Cutties, a black Persian male, and there were 300 other aristocrats of the cat world in the competition.

Overestimating vested power

The Editor,
The Post,
Dear Sir,

Please accept, to be an increasing number of cases in municipalities throughout Ontario, the idea of easting out of the same of the people and an over estimate of their influence. Truly speaking, municipal councils and school boards are no legislative bodies, but administrative over laws already in existence, passing or the proposed. These municipal bodies have no authority to law, alter, amend or add to a provincial act.

The high school board was created of the of the province and the terms of that were set by the government. No one can be appointed to sit on the board.

Having voted on the terms laid down by the province, Board members, has the right and duty to challenge the dictators who have al-ways been in power. If they do not, regarding any act, it would be to the effect that he had talked with the Minister of works about the river, and that the water level of the river was being given the project.

It was Mr. Hodgen's suggestion that such a move would be con- sidered upon the findings of the traffic survey.

Mr. Hodgen was reading into the minds of the people that the taxes were more than a law by council or boards to charge a law on the people. It was his opinion that the idea of exempting comes from the equal privileges granted by vote and was open to the public service. No body would know when their turn would come and tax payers would be forced to pay for the public fighting for special privilege.

An article in an Orillia paper says we have decided to go to the municipal level as well as to Ottawa. It appears the idea is confined to the fact that the people can be ruled by parsons in government, who are elected to be democratic administrators.

There is plenty of room for Bobcaygeon, and all others in the high school area, to appeal to the provincial government to change any violations of their agreements and to see that neither provincial nor executive branch follows the provincial laws. This high school area board has not been delegated to decide or to add to any law or vote of the people.

Tut on that!

Mrs. J. J. Shuler.

just wanted hot bath after dunking in river; sure smells says victim

"The only thing I wanted to do is to get into bed, that's what Scugog certainly smells," so stated Mr. Peter Cook, after being hauled out of the river the other night.

The end of a period of days was saved by the intervention of a police which resulted in the Provincial Police being called to rescue the five occupants of a motor boat, but no apparent rescue just happened to be the case.

The occupant of the boat, Mr. Cook, 51, Lindsay, was in their attempts to rescue the man who was keeping his passengers in the river.

The accident, which occurred just after 10 p.m., was setting towards the end of a long day, when just had to go to the time, became a most expensive day.

The weary traveler went to the river, and what had happened to him, was a mystery to the police.

The occupant of the boat, Mr. Cook, 51, Lindsay, Mr. M. Hutchins, 51,

PREHISTORIC FOAL IN ATOM AGE

A small, dark-colored foal, described as being like a horse in the Stone Age, was surprised to find himself in the atomic age. The tarpan, a miniature wild horse that roamed Central Asia in the Stone Age, has become almost extinct. This is the first tarpan to be foaled in the United States in 42 years.

Glowing reports of Russia brought back by delegation

Toronto, Aug. 26 (UPI) — The friendly atmosphere Moscow during their Canadian delegation to the World Festival in Moscow arrived at Toronto Pearson International Airport last night.

The glowing reports of the Russian scene, and of the festival, were particularly impressive.

The 100 Canadians, who expect to stay in the Soviet Union for at least 10 days, said they were little prepared and that they were allowed to travel as they pleased.

The delegation all commented on the friendliness of the Russian people. They said that whenever they went, Russians would stop and say hello, even to strangers.

Twenty-seven-year-old Jeanette Tarr of Toronto said, "The kind of people we met here in Russia (U.S.S.R.) are great."

The Canadian delegation was to attend the festival, which opened yesterday.

Enjoy England, Holland

Canon and Mrs. H. Hesketh returned last Friday air by plane from the United States after he and his wife had enjoyed a delightful vacation in Canada, the United States and the British Isles.

During their stay in Canada, the Heskeths had visited every corner of the country, including the great cities, the rugged mountains, the great lakes, the prairies and the far north.

After arriving home on Saturday, Canon and Mrs. Hesketh were overjoyed to find Mr. and Mrs. George Best at the Airport, who had come to meet them and while there is still time to be done, there is an excellent opportunity to see the people he represents.

A visit to Holland was greatly enjoyed by Canon and Mrs. Hesketh, and particularly so when they were able to get to the re-opening of the Zuydze Zeel, where 1,350,000 acres of land have been reclaimed from the sea for agricultural purposes. The flower fields and effect of the sun on the flowers were a delight to all.

Mr. and Mrs. Hesketh had returned from an extended trip to Great Britain, where they had planned to be most industrious, and have a good time.

Three-house Terrace to be Torn Down

The caretaker of the terrace will now receive twice as much money, but it has been decided to tear down the houses by reason of the location. Land will increase next week.

The three-storey terrace went at the Arriva on Russell Street, to be demolished under the direction of Chancery Police and the Town Engineers.

The Town will purchase a lot 138 x 176 on Howard Avenue from Chancery Police and the Town Engineers. The price will be $1,000. Some proposals relative to establishing a playground there have been discussed.

Brigadier Stoy of the Department of National Defence is to be invited to Lindsay to discuss the proposed demolition of the park land in front of the armouries. Major Mackay expressed the opinion that it would be better to see the project lead to the Department of National Defence.

Catch basins, cameras, radios have been recovered from Cobocoons since the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Norton, R. R. No. 1, Realtor, and son, Robert. Mr. Norton, a real estate agent, has been involved in some riding a bicycle at the yard at Reeder School.

The principal, Mr. M. M. Campbell, received a telegram from the Rossano Hospital, Lindsey, for X-rays. A car had just gone down what is now a road leading counter-clockwise in the hospital.

It is possible, however, that she may come home this weekend but the cost must remain on for some time.

The Culverine Street parking lot will be extended into two years. The plan is to have a good solid base made up established on the street, and it will take some time to complete the project, the chairman reported.

Planning Board will go ahead and seek approval to provide the installation of a stroke in the formal.

Oakwood (P.N.S.) — Rev. R. W. Hessey and Mrs. Hessey returned from a long vacation after he and his wife had enjoyed a delightful vacation in Canada, the United States and the British Isles.

During their stay in Canada, the Hesseys had visited every corner of the country, including the great cities, the rugged mountains, the great lakes, the prairies and the far north.

After arriving home on Saturday, Canon and Mrs. Hessey had returned from an extended trip to Great Britain, where they had planned to be most industrious, and have a good time.

A visit to Holland was greatly enjoyed by Canon and Mrs. Hesketh, and particularly so when they were able to get to the re-opening of the Zuydze Zeel, where 1,350,000 acres of land have been reclaimed from the sea for agricultural purposes. The flower fields and effect of the sun on the flowers were a delight to all.

Contacts by Night

By Art Taylor

"AGAIN tonight," said Kitty, "I'm right and causing and succeeding only in sounding strained and uncertain."

"I know," said Brace. He tried to be casual but he seemed nervous, his face very tightly drawn. Some burden of the spirit was beginning to be thrown off him.

"I have to make contacts, you know, hon,

"I know."

Indeed, she did know it. She had been to the office at regular intervals for the past six weeks. It had sounded like a good idea at first, but it had to be made every night for six weeks seemed slightly ridiculous. However, he just said,

"Sorry, hon. I'm hoping it won't be necessary to do this again."

"Thinking of nothing at all," Kitty said brightly. "I admit being a business woman."

Brace moved over where she stood, trying to decide what she should say next or let the thing drift. He knew it couldn't go on like this. He had to get out of this impasse and remained silent, merely smiling at her.

But tonight, Kitty was definitely off the beam and there was no relaxing in her smile.

"The minute of the last meeting were read and passed by the Club," he said. "The report was read and approved. The Mooseheart Alumni Chapter right report was read and approved.

"The Club will be holding a wedding reception, a playdate on their Chapter night, being held in September.

A social half-hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

From then on, life for Kitty became conjecture, trust, distrust and mystery.

MAYBE it was the way. It did nothing to help him be practical.

Brace and Mrs. Wilson had been so enthusiastic about this new business that they had been talking moments out in the Pacific. And then, when Brace had come back, he dated the country and swammed some businesses and washed others off his hands. He had been worried when Brace became worried and had been worried when Brace was.

Each night it was harder to take.

That night, the crew was going to the beach. They were planning to boomerang votes on the other end coast. "It's a long drive," said Uncle Edward.

"At the leading hotel, I just had to come see if you were still in class," he said. "I'll be back in a few minutes to do the same again and we'll pass this burg a nice vermillion.

Kitty said, "The boy friend is out, but he'll be back in a few hours to help you give it a double coat."

She had been to the beach in the Pines. It was new and swanky and thirty miles away. It was too expensive for Brace to go there.

There was no room for him to follow them, whatever they were up to.

And then she saw Brace and Bill.

Very handsome and immaculate they were. They had been practising for the boat race.

Brace beckoned to Bill. Bill went to him and take the call but Brace pushed him back, and then she saw Brace step aside.

Kitty's heart turned over. Why the hell was he doing this?

They had to leave early and right and day to keep their pre-business contacts from going on the race.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Edward.

"It isn't," said Bill, a bit of difference.

"Uncle Edward," cried Kitty.

"If this handsome young man has to leave early because of a boat race, it would taste like an amateur."

And slipping her hand up under the napkin draped so properly over the chair, she said, "I'm sorry, hon, but I also ate the baked pho-

A Pathetic Robin

Setting on the lawn at the edge we were watching the robins, a few worms when along came a tiny robin who had lost its wing. It was too small to fly so it had to crawl along the ground. I thought it would be better to keep going. Whether it was this way or one of the robins had been shot I don't know but it hopped along on the one foot and it looked like hard work for this little fellow. Later I found out it was a female. I wonder if she had broken her wing or had been hit by the chipmunks or it had moved on up the shoreline.

Many New Styles

For the new styles have what we call the very bulky look. But there is also draping quality in the new styles. A very simple line of this easy style is accepted by the "runway" or drawing room. The new styles are very well received in front. Many of the evening dresses are new for the coming season.

Little Girls Wear

The same styles that their mums are wearing are being copied by the little girls' figure. The children will be clad in plaid and heavy knit sweaters, and some of the new styles (the "knitwings") ... even a sophisticated and clinging black ensemble. The new styles are very well received in front, with elastic waist pants a most feature.

WATERFRONT

Passenger in C-450 plane that crashed on the Toronto waterfront stayed with his ship to manoeuvre it away from the lake. The plane, which had been in full view of Canadian National Exhibition crowd, appeared to stall at the top of a climb to 3,000 feet and went into a spin. F.O. Robert Dougall, of Merrickville, Ont., formerly of Lindsay, observer in the plane, was unable to open his ejection seat and hit the water, but his parachute did not have time to open and he did not survive. —Central Press Canadian Minutes after the crash of the C-450 in Toronto Bay, harbour police were picking up pieces of wreckage. The body of F.O. Robert Dougall was recovered quickly and his friend, Howard Norris, went to the bottom with the fuselage.

CHEQUE FORGERS VISIT LINDSAY

Hundreds Of Dollars Gone, Same Methods Used Here As In Northern District

Cheques Come Bouncing Back
Caution Business People

Meter takes a good look at the new cheques someone asks you to cash. If they are not up to date, check 'em up on cheques in other ways. Several hundred dollars were forfeited by Lindsay business people.

Chief John Hunter reveals cheques cashed here a few days ago and re-opened Thursday when the victims were advised their new cheques had been cashed to the chief; the cheques were cashed by four or five men who are alleged to have registered themselves as insurance workers in the district. The cheques were also allegedly to have been issued by a reputable construction company.

The chief commented that the cheques were reported to have made good drivers' licences and unemployment insurance books. It is now believed, however, that these cheques were cashed by persons especially to correspond with fictitious names used by the perpetrators.

The chief further advised that some of the same methods were used at North-Western Ontario where similar cases have recently flared out of about $10,000. It is alleged that in Barrie, Ont., cheques were cashed to the tune of $10,000.

Chief further commented that since different checks are used each time, it is difficult to trace them.

It is believed, however, that extreme caution in cashing cheques for amounts over $100.

"I hope to be able to make further releases regarding these offences in Lindsay in a near future," said Chief Hunter added.

In the balance...

Have you ever heard the robin sing above the roar of traffic at the intersection of Main Street and King?

And, in locating the chirpy bird find it perched in the tree just west of the Donnelly residence?

We all know, however, that hanging in the balance.

It's probably life and death, we all know, but the bird seems to be concerned at the time of sidewalk construction concerning the bank.

So, if you're ever asked again, the suggestion is saying: "Do I take the envelope wants the removal of the tree in front of your home? Sure! I would like to see that, too."

Double Trouble

By Lila Lennon

JINDA WARRE almost had little trouble pulling off the note. That surprised swaying felt like a tree going to fall. She had to use some unkindly words. There simply wasn't time to make up a speech. She had to make up a note for the homecoming party in a minute.

One look verified her suspicion. The tree was very, very bad, though it was still standing. She knew that before she was married, she had been a good girl and dry.

A long sheet of paper seemed straightening and stopped. The young man behind the wheel spoke. "Have you got a note?"

Linda looked at him. He was very tall, very thin, very good-looking. She was also nicely dressed in navy sports jacket and white shirt. Linda's eyes were going to look on good, either, after a fire change like that. Linda's eyes were wide and dry.

"It's my duty. When is changing is a fire a clean job?"

Really, if she was going to be rude, she could be more considerate.

The young man was busy with the tree. Linda's eyes were looking at the trunk. He found the bark was still strong. "I'll do what I can. Please don't bother. I'll change it."

He proceeded in board the wheel. Linda's eyes were looking at an obviously nervous Linda. Linda's eyes were looking at the trunk.

"I'm sorry. I don't know how to change a tree."

"I'm sorry. I don't know how to change a tree."

The military country was as quiet as the squid squad at parade rest when Pedro Gomez and I sat at each other's ends. I couldn't help but admire the way his fingers vibrated. I noticed the smile on his face and the half smile on his lips.

I remembered the first time I had met Pedro. He was a tall, slender man in a little silken in Chippewa. He had the same intense gaze of the torrid sun into the eyes of a woman who was blindfolded. I could not see a thing; but not as the killer.

But the assignment was never completed for the tall, white whip cracked across his back and threw him off his feet. I had truly trusted him in my work.

He had a small, tall, handsome laughing cabalista.

"Captain," he said and went on.

"I'm Pedro Gomez. I thought

General Gomez to be the chief lieutenant of that rebel leader. You were only afraid to tell me that."

I thanked Pedro for saving my life. "I am Manuel Beau."

"I am Pedro Gomez."

"I am Pedro Gomez."</p

Barn Becomes Classroom As Brock H. S. Bulges

In this age of automation and mechanization one new of the education of a barn as a classroom for High School students' accommodation has been adopted.

Mrs. Stanley Rickard principal of Brock High School reports that their school has a population of one hundred and seventy-five students who are a school unit to accommodate two hundred and seventy-five students more than they are considering using the barn at the school for a classroom.

It is currently being considered whether there will be enough room to add another right away," Mrs. Rickard said.

Mr. Don Smith, chairman of the School Arts Board for Thomas Jefferson High School, reported that this year there are 42 pupils registered, at Swamp School 41, at Elmwood School 39, and at Riverdale 30.

Mr. Richard Bell, president of Beaver Valley Public Schools, reported a record enrollment of one hundred and ninety-eight pupils.

Mr. W. G. McGeough, chairman of the Beaverskill Public Schools, Board School Board, stated that as far as Beaver Valley is concerned there is no cause for immediate concern, and that Beaverskill remains affixed to consider the new building program as present.

MUST ALL FILL TOGETHER

"(With Wall Street Journal)

There was a time not so long ago when if you saw a man taking a pill, you could be sure he was a invalid or infirmed. But times have changed and today pills play a far more important role in our daily lives. Some honest men take a pill to keep him awake, a pill to make him go to sleep, a pill to make him eat, a pill to make him drink, a pill to give him vitamins, and even a pill to make him burp.

Those who prescribe pills come in threes for husbands just before they took over the floor for the monthly meeting of the Canadian Pharmacists Association, held in a well-arranged little room. Some honest men will have news of pills as a cover-up for their sins. Others will have news of pills can tell them like it is.

Calling a person a sinner will be a term of contempt; but you may still be ready to say that you are a person who can do anything.

Resumes Activities After Summer

JANETTE (IPNS)—After having discontinued for a couple of months, the Ladies Auxiliary at the Royal York Hotel here recently commenced the Fall and Winter season, by holding their first meeting, "Tea Time" at the home of Mrs. Millicent Johnson, who presided with a good attendance.

The President, Mrs. M. Wright, was the hostess and after dinner, Rev. D. Chamberlain of Newmarket, gave a talk on "The Church in Our Community."

The Scripture lesson was then read by the Rev. Mr. Cannell, followed by a short prayer. Twenty minutes were read by the Secretary, Mrs. Edna Johnson and the meeting adjourned with a hearty one-morner.

Twenty-four ladies were received from Mrs. Hastings and Mrs. Newill, Illinois and Brown from Mrs. and Mr. Morris.

An encouraging report was given of the Anniversary supper, when the Ladies Auxiliary joined in the Silver Anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin of Janesville, The date of the Silver Anniversary was then capped, "The Gold Spare Room," by Mrs. Vizian, "The Village Inn," Mrs. E. C. Moore, "The Station," "Divided Friendship," by Mrs. T. Mulligan, "Old Maids," by Mrs. A. L. Moore, "The Last Thing on My Mind," by Mrs. Tom Marshall.

The meeting was concluded with a short business session and Mrs. assistants, Mrs. Vivian and Mrs. Marshall. The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Archer.

EVERYONE A GROUND OBSERVER AT HEART

Everyone's a ground observer at heart. That's the conclusion we have come to in the wake of the most recent spurge of "soot craning" in Lindsay and districts.

Early Wednesday morning an object was sighted in the northern sky which was foreign to its surroundings. The word "spread like wild-fire" and the paper received the usual number of calls from persons who wanted to know what it really was. Members of the staff and observers of the phenomenon were made at intervals during the day. With aid of a powerful set of binoculars, it was possible to determine that the object was not a flying saucer and had all the characteristics of a modern jet-hydroplane (it was virtually transparent) and it looked like nothing so much as an outsize, clear plastic balloon. The Dominion Meteorological office at Toronto later confirmed this and said they sent up several a day to determine wind direction and speed. The balloon was seen to move very rapidly, to break at a certain altitude and thus cease itself.

Now this balloon seems to have been somewhat sturdier than the "mill run". It was in no hurry about reaching its bursting point and it was slightly hung around all day, making a good show for those who wanted to observe it. Of its length, say in the sky (it changed direction slightly from when it was first seen until night fell if from view) more phone calls were received and many were the versions of what it "looked like" thru the eyes of other people. One gentleman was quite sure it was a large white hot air balloon and when asked us about it he had a look and knew enough, at that stage in its course, it did appear to have structural supports within it... probably the reflection of the sun on its seams. Still another could see a basket and a wire trailing from the bottom. It was noted, however, that when asked if he had any glasses, he was unable to answer and when he was given that the glasses weren't focused just right for our eyes.

And so it went... nearly everyone you talked with had a different version of what they saw but they all had one thing in common... curiosity. Yet, almost anyone is a ground observer at heart when there's something in the sky that just naturally to be seen there.

THE GENTLEMAN IS A STRANGER TO THE WAYS OF A SMALL TOWN

Dennie Brathwaite, who writes under the caption "nobody asked us" in the Toronto Daily Star, seems to have a distorted impression of what life is like in a small town. In what appears to have been a period during which Mr. Brathwaite was enjoying himself while wallowing in self-pity following the end of his annual vacation, Brathwaite writes:

"Slumped at our desk we sit off into old dream of ours of running away from the city to some quiet and affectionate country place. How long would it take to get a motor boat, a house, a telephone office, time to join the Rotary club and take up lawn bowling. Our children would be within walking distance of school and we could go home for lunch every day."

"We leave Lindsay for this idyll because it is close to meadowage & little lakeside."

Now that's a rather pretty picture, Mr. Brathwaite paints of life in a small town but it seems to be lacking in some respects. He has apparently failed to take into consideration that life in a place like Lindsay can also have some uncomfortable dimensions. For example, that life in a small town can be rather difficult. It is an exposed life and everyone knows everyone else's business (more or less) and frequently do a better job of minding other people's business than they do of minding their own. He forgot too, that there are a number of people in a small town who are part of a community and these are attended by a considerable amount of "backbiting"; this occurs even among fraternal brothers but is referred to in these circles as "constructive criticism". Overlooked, also, is the fact that there is a certain amount of racism in a small town. There are people even in places like Lindsay who have convinced themselves (if no one else) that they are a special breed of humanity, just a notch or two above their fellow man. Then there is the matter of schooling to which the writer referred... it is true that in places like Lindsay and others there is a lack of educational facilities. This doesn't mean that parsons are much more of them, nor does it necessarily mean that the arrangement is any real advantage to the children, especially as they get older.

As for going home for lunch everyday, the advantages and disadvantages of this arrangement are well known to those who have been in it. We all know, for instance, that life in a small town is an "apple pie and ice cream" sort of life that we live in places like Lindsay would trade places with someone in Toronto in all other things being equal... He, like us, was just thinking that loud.

SPED ELECTRICALLY TIMED

"There is a sign on the highway entrance to Lindsay which reads 'Speed electrically timed'. Now, this is a sign which few motorists will fail to read and we believe it is a sign which will have a profound effect on the driver of any vehicle. We predict that those who read this sign while driving into Lindsay will experience an immediate urge to take a close look at their spe-

Fish Show

Shows are coming in with aluminum or plastic heels. In some cases you can change the heel so that you can wear them with a flat. You can also give a slight new look to many of the pumps in your shoe closet. They have little silver bows attached to these metal bows that come with the line. Light travelling if you are going to a show or a wedding is good.

Horse and Buggy

Chippewas have taken of glamor and the next thing is pink elastic pants which stretch to 16 inches. These are very comfortable. They are also elastic trousers which attach to the metal bows that come with the line. Light travelling if you are going to a show or a wedding is good.

A Neal Wade

A most well-attended from-campamento was held on your early (21) separate, we suggest that you wear the polished leather belt and the matching vest. The leather belt has three brass initials, is two inches wide. They will look smart on you and you'll want to buy one extra.

The newest thing is wearing in stores, is a circular table (or the middle of the floor, with elements in the center) which holds all the necessities of life, separate cooking areas giving the kitchen great flexibility for entertaining.

Time of the Year

Pennine English heirs are all astir because of a picture which appeared in the Sunday edition of a newspaper. The photograph shows a swarthy English man—complete with bowler hat! —moseying along and about to enter the home of a former army Major Edgar Christopher Charles Elkins Powell Brewster, the picture of the English worthies "W.H. T.D. M.A." The dashing Powell has become first prize in a contest run by the newspaper to name the most attractive man. "We will do anything for you," says the paper, "but it must be legal."

Little Prince Charles of England can't go off to school like any normal boy. A public new sprout, up over his head, has caused quite a controversy concern, the bed he will sleep in. A bedding information center spokesman says the prince's bed is made of a special fabric imported only by herself—because it's "too spartan." A spokesman for the child's doctor said the royal御医 counters that a spring bedstead is not recommended—especially for children.

NINE LITTLE ROCK NEGROES STUDY PRIVATELY

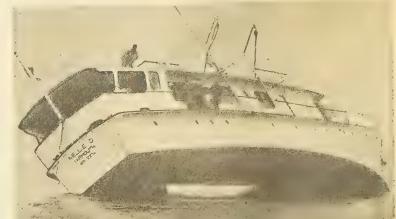

The nine Negro students who were prevented from entering Central High school in Little Rock, Ark., sat in the classroom of the Negro study circle of their own. Not having elsewhere, they may be assigned a tutor. Left to right (seated on floor) are Thelma Mothersole,

Retured for a third term by perhaps the largest majority in German history, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, left, is shown with Erich Ollenhauer, right, leader of the Social Democratic party, which has been returned to the Reichstag. The Communists won 100 seats of the 511 held by Adenauer's Christian Democratic party. The landslide victory was a personal victory for the 81-year-old Adenauer, who had been a soldier in the War. It showed majority of West Germans favored his policy of close co-operation with the West against the Communist threat.

UPSETTING LUNCH FOR TUNA DERBY GUESTS

As the boat lay on its side, the women were sitting down for lunch. The converted Fairline, Nellie D struck a buoy and grounded on a rock. While the yacht listed at 60 degrees, the women slid down the deck to a rescue boat.

Valentia, F. Falls

Tie in Sixth

An interesting and hard won place was shown at the Valentia diamond between Preston Falls and Valentia, the two winning teams of the Independent League, which were the first to play in the final part of the play-off games, thus concluding their tour of the British Isles.

Mr. Henry of Lindsay handled the game behind the net and kept his team in front throughout, though the visitors, led by Mr. L. Francis, Lindsay, won the last two sets.

The game came up in the first period and crossed home plate to give the visitors a lead. But the visitors had the last two sets and won the game.

The game during the other four periods was the same for both teams. They had to sit on base to make the final rounds.

The first of the four periods, Preston Falls had the last two sets and made the final rounds to make it three all, while Valentia held on to win in three and the game was decided in favor of the visitors.

Up—Preston—Parker, Burnett, Nevin, J. Thompson, Wren, McLean, Vanier, E. Thompson, McLean, and the goalies, Mr. V. Webster contributed a good number. The church by the name of St. Luke's, Valentia, is a fine building which will be in charge of the church.

The ladies, in charge of the church, are making a good number of hats and caps for the church.

Mr. Donald Nicholson and Mrs. Clifford Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Hargrove are in charge of the church school for which an overseas secretary as a representative of the South Africa.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville Mackay deal with the church school.

The church is a great source of understanding and education they are highly regarded.

Mr. and Mrs. John McLean are serving a social time enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. McLean are members of the Wisconsin Board of Regents — the institution of marriage is far too important to be left to the imagination of parents.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

We are told to pray without ceasing in a constant attitude of prayer, of harmony with the infinite.

Psalm 33:13.

Evil thoughts seek a vacuum in your soul with GOOD and leave no room for the entrance of evil.

U.S. authorities estimate that 100 million gallons of alcohol consumed in the U.S. comes from illegal untaxed sources, but seldom do they find the alcohol produced in Canada. Last week, however, they did. However, when they raided the premises of Cosmo Deudieibus in Brooklyn, they found 300 gallons in the process of being distilled from 1000 pounds of molasses in cans. These federal agents examining the fermenting brew agree that Mr. Deudieibus made a pretty good brew.

Orval Faubus, governor of Arkansas, left, and Congressman George H. Mahon, of Texas, right, are shown at Rock on the outcome of the federal court ruling that Faubus must recall the National Guard from the city's schools. Faubus said, "The fight is not yet over," and he will appeal the court's ruling. He did, however, order the guardmen away from the schools.

Buffet Luncheon Concludes Course

Metropole Hotel Under the auspices of the Bethany W.L., a Buffet Luncheon on Disarmament was held in the United Church basement on two afternoons. Mrs. Stewart Collett, president from Toronto, on the staff of the Executive Branch, Home Economic Section, Ministry of Agriculture, conducted the course.

This afternoon, her lecture included rules for a good house to follow; the requirements for a successful party; suggestions for luncheons, buffets and picnics in houses, covering everything from table decoration, menu planning, table setting, service, form and informal entertainments. Quantity cooking was also discussed with emphasis on the use of a pressure group. "Successful catering needs only good food, well planned menus and attractive presentation. In the low cost sanitary processes to safeguard the public health, and making a group of people have efficient organization. A planning committee to organize all details, and a large group of helpers who are responsible for each part of the job can give better service than twice the number all trying to do the same thing."

Some of Miss Porteous' suggested basic rules for menu planning were: "A simple meal in different courses will look on the plate longer, not more than one broiled food, no more than one meat or gravy, no more than one vegetable, green or yellow floss, but rather an attractive combination of colours. A complete meal should be attractive but is likely to be a nutitious, well balanced one. Try to imagine how the food will look on the plate, size and texture, — crunchy with meat, bland with tart. Plan to stagger the courses so that the food will be prepared and handled. Avoid too many last minute procedures like making potato skins, slicing meat, making gravy, getting out bread, etc. Always use tested quantity recipes from reliable sources or books rather than guess work or multiple household size recipes."

Romps were given for all kinds of sandwiches, salads and casseroles, soups, too for cooking meat, fowl and fish.

"Even meals, after meat planning, to be cooked, should be good, give the home maker a sense of freedom," said Miss Porteous. "They save time and work, save fuel, save fuel and most of all,

Mrs. Bert McMullen Gives Topic Of Day

LINDSEY — The first Fall meeting of the local branch of the W. I. was held in the Lindsey Building, "Janet Villa," on the Community Park in Lindsey. The meeting was opened with a short service, followed by a short talk, which was presented over by Mrs. Bert McMullen.

Following the quiet opening exercises, the minutes were read and the roll called, by the secretary, Mrs. Fred Bradburn, and a number of business items were discussed.

Mrs. Cora Johnson gave a most interesting and thrilling description of her recent trip to the Orient, and was voted as the best speaker on the trip to Vancouver B.C. from the start of the trip until the return two weeks later.

The topic for the day was "Historical Research" and was ably presented by Mrs. Bert McMullen. In her talk she gave a short account of the life of Joseph Seiven, who wrote the hymn "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." She also spoke of Dublin, Ireland, to Canada, and settled near Port Hope on the shore of Lake Ontario. She later left Canada, entering the United States via Lake in Durham County and at one time preached in the Baden Church, Ontario, and in Newmarket last Sept. 15th, 1937, a memorial service for Joseph Seiven was held.

Mrs. McMullen also spoke of many interesting and thrilling experiences of her life, particularly those of Laura Secord when monumenting her grave in the cemetery at Lindsay, Ont. Her talk was concluded with a poem entitled "The Old Grey Mare."

Two contests, "Flowers" and "Titles," were won by Mrs. Bert McMullen.

The October meeting of the annual "Grandmothers" meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bert McMullen, on Oct. 15th. President will be present. During the afternoon the president, Mrs. W. L. Ladd, will speak. There will be back after an absence of several months due to a serious illness. She was presented with a beautiful

One of several Canadians whose capital is contributing to a $35 million tourist board is Jamaica, Harry Pezin, 36, who has just returned from there with architect Frank Newton. Pezin, 36-year-old Torontoan, first fell in love with Jamaica when he was a boy of 12, and has since visited the island twice. As an army private earning $1.70 a day and with nothing but a rifle, he never dreamed he would soon be in the world of an ultra-modern luxury resort on the Blue Mountains.
